Regular text should not be more than 15 pages including references and keywords. Page numbers should be placed beginning from the first page.

Scientific names of subject organisms should be provided where they first appear in the text if their common names are to be employed in the text. Titles of journals in "References" section should be written in italic.

8. Table, Figure and Image

Tables, figures and images should be embedded in proper places in the text. All of the tables, figures and images should be numbered in the article (as Figure 1, Figure 2 etc.). Color tables and figures can be used in the article.

Page should be vertical. Therefore, in order to place a table, table design should be changed, if necessary.

Table size:

Width	14 cm
Height	20 cm
Font size (title & content)	9
Font size (Annotation)	8

No vertical line

If a table exceeds the margins mentioned above, it should be divided into two tables as a and b.

All the figure and image folders should be uploaded to the journal system, as well. Graphics should not be uploaded to web system or added to the paper as jpg or any other image format, but the graphic program used should be uploaded.

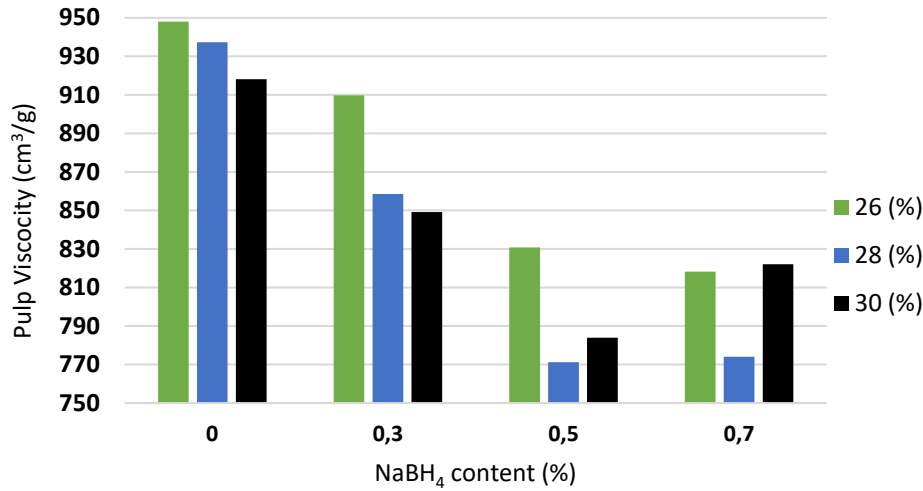

Restrains on table margins should be used for images and figures, as well. These visuals should be placed centered in the text. Photos or pictures should have a minimum resolution of 300 dpi.

Each of them should be referred to in the text and if possible, they should be placed just after the paragraph they are referred. Font sizes of the titles and contents of the tables and graphics should be 9; titles should be numbered and centered; and caption in figure should be placed below whereas caption in table should be placed above. The first letters in the titles of these visuals should be capital. Sample table and graphics are given below:

9. References

References should be in alphabetical order. All the publications stated in this section should have the following information: authors' name, title of the journal/book, title of the section/article, year of publication, volume number/book chapters, and page numbers. Abbreviated titles of books and journals should not be used. DOI number, if any, should be included.

9.1 Reference links

Please make sure that in-text citations are added to references as well so as to allow creating links to indexing services such as Scopus, CrossRef, PubMed etc.

Remember that giving wrong last name, journal and book title, article title, release year and page number may prevent linking to indexing services. References should be written with their DOI numbers, if any. Unpublished researches/results and articles, and information obtained through personal communications should not be used as references. Articles on publishing process should be given with DOI numbers, if any.

9.2 Web references

When referencing from a website, URL and date accessed must be written. If there is information, website, DOI, author name, year, main publication/source should also be stated.

9.3 In-text citations

One-author-study	(Bozkurt, 1992)
Different papers in chronological order	(Tavşanoğlu, 1973; Özçelik, 1984; Heede, 1991)
Joint study	(Taylor and White, 1977)
More than two author-studies	(Aykut et al., 1997)
Same author, same year, different studies	(Bozkurt, 1992a; Bozkurt 1992b)

When an author has both individual and group work, individual study is written first. In referencing conference, symposium or journal papers, only the initial letter of the first word is capital.

In Journal of Forestry Research, Harvard system is used for in-text citations and references.
