

Two New Funerary Inscriptions from Bursa Museum

Fatma AVCU*

After 1993 numerous new inscriptions have been brought to the Archaeological Museum of Bursa. Within the scope of a research project conducted by Prof. Dr. N. Eda Akyürek Şahin and funded by Akdeniz University since 2004, some of them have been published¹. Two of the new funerary inscriptions are presented below.

No. 1. Epigram for Charmosynos (Fig. 1 a-b)

Find spot: Unknown. Inv. No.: - ; H.: 47 cm; W.: 59 cm; D.: 9 cm; Lh.: 1,8-2 cm.

Limestone stele. On the shaft of the stele there is a thirteen-line inscription on the tabula ansata. The inscription is enclosed by a frame of ornamentation. A distaff on left side. Ivy leaf at upper right – left side and bottom right side. Scored lines with letters angled Epsilon Ε and Sigma Σ. Omega is given as ϖ without underline. And Upsilon is given as ϖ.

I am grateful to Prof. Dr. N. Eda Akyürek Şahin who suggested that I publish these inscriptions, Enver Sağır and Ali Sinan Özbey, respectively the ex-director and the current director of the Archaeological Museum of Bursa for their permission to work on these documents. And also I am grateful to Prof. Dr. Johannes Nollé for his remarks concerning the manuscript.

¹ The essential corpus of the inscriptions from Bursa was compiled by Th. Corsten in 1993 (IK 39 and 40). A project for a new corpus of inscriptions in the Archaeological Museum of Bursa is in progress under the direction of Prof. Dr. N. Eda Akyürek Şahin. In the year 333, on the 15th day of the month Apel(l)aios: Earth covers Charmosynos [our brother?] too early, who tasted life for nineteen years. Aurelius Kalandion (buried) his sweetest brother, Attaliane (buried) her brother-in-law, Herakleia (buried) her brother. Farewell!

L. 1: Sullan Era. 333 = 248/249 AD.

L. 2: Άπελαίου = Άπελλαίου.

L. 3-7 Whereas the pentameter of this distich is metrically, but not grammatically correct, as it should be taken as ἐννέα καὶ δέκ' ἔτη γευσάμενον βίοτον², the poet failed to construct a metrically accurate hexameter. The beginning (Χαρμόσυνον προπετής ...) is correct, and γαῖα καλύπτει is very common at the end of hexameters, so that we should eliminate τόν. Between προπετής and γαῖα something is missing, perhaps [τὸν ἀδελφόν].

Χαρμόσυνον προπετής [τὸν ἀδελφὸν] γαῖα καλύπτει {τὸν} ἐνναία καὶ δέκ' ἔτη γευσάμενον βίοτον.

L. 3-4: Χαρμόσυνος is a common Greek personal name³. In προπετής the Omicron was written on the top of Rho, as there was not enough space for it in this line.

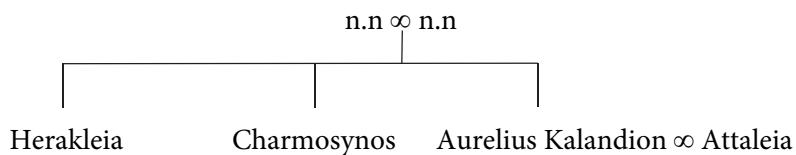

L. 4: προπετής γῆα is similar to προπετής μοῖρα or δαίμων, found in other funerary epigrams. γῆα = γαῖα. The interchange of αι and ε cf. Gignac 1976, 192.

L. 11: δααίρα = δαέρα from δαήρ, -έρος: brother-in law. For spelling δαίρα instead of δαέρα cf. Buresch 1977, 116.⁴

² Cf. IPerge 411; IG V/1 1186.

³ See the volumes of LGPN (I, II A, III A, IV, V A, V B).

⁴ For δαίρα also cf. TAM V/1 56, 472, 483a and 660.

No. 2. Gravestone for Eutychianos (Fig. 2 a-d)

Find Spot: Unknown. Inv. No.: - ; H.: 47 cm; W.: 59 cm; D.: 7 cm; Lh.: 1,5-2 cm.

Limestone with tabula ansata, broken into four pieces. The inscription is framed by floral ornaments. A perfume bottle was carved on the right side and an ornament (Fig. 2d: a hammer / pick-axe?) on the left side. Beneath the inscription a billhook (falx arboraria⁵) (Fig. 2c), a plough and two zebus (Fig. 2b), probably the ploughing oxen, were incised into the free space of the tabula⁶.

Fig. 2a) Gravestone for Eutychianos

Fig. 2b) The zebus

Fig. 2c) The billhook

⁵ For falx arboraria, see White 1967, 85-88. Its depiction on the tomb stelae in Prusa ad Olympum and its vicinity is prevalent, cf. Uzunoğlu 2015, 40, fn. 4 (with further references).

⁶ For tomb stelae in the northwestern part of Asia Minor see Cremer 1991, 1992. About zebu cf. Pinkwart 1965, 43f; cf. Plin., NH., 8.179; Hrouda 1997, 91-150, esp. 130 "... und unter den Haustieren gibt es den Nachweis für das Zebu, die indische Rasse des Hausrindes. ... aber das in situ-Foto zeigt doch noch die für das Buckelrind charakteristische Gestalt mit den steil aufragenden Hornzapfen und der gewölbten Stirnpartie. Buckelrinder entstanden, wie gesagt, auf dem indischen Subkontinent aus der lokalen Unterart des Auerochsen. Aufgrund dieses einzigen Fundes können wir jedoch nicht sagen, ob Zebus beim Fundort regelmäßig gezüchtet oder nur gelegentlich aus dem Osten eingehandelt wurden. Osteologisch ist das Zebu auch für die Unterstadt in Boğazköy-Hattuša nachgewiesen.". "

In the year 340, month Hyperberetrios, 9th day. Aurelius Alexander and Aurelia Diodora made (this grave) for their son Eutychianos in his memory. Aurelia Paulina, Alexandros, Hermodoros and Metrodoros honoured their brother. The paternal uncles Aurelius Hermogenes, Aurelius Eutychianos and Artemidoros honoured their descendant. The maternal uncles Aurelius Metrodoros, Aurelius Alexandros, Aurelius Hermogenianos, Artemidoros and Nikeros honoured their nephew, and all the rest of kinship honoured him. Farewell passenger!

L. 1: Sullan Era. 255/256 A.D.

The letters recorded on the stone are ΥΠΕΡΒΕΤΤΕΟΥ, which should actually have been Ὑπερβερετέου (= Ὑπερβερεταίου).

L. 3: ὑψῷ = νίψῳ.

L. 6: ἐτειμήσαν: The usage of this honorific formula in a funerary context is not unusual in the region of Bithynia. According to an inscription preserved in the Bursa Museum and published recently by Uzunoğlu and Taşdelen (2014, 42-43, no. 5), there are even examples in which the grave owner was honoured with a golden wreath “χρυσῷ στεφάνῳ” by his threptoi, threptai and freedmen.

L. 13: ἀδελφίδεος: brother's or sister's son, nephew⁷. In accusative casus “ἀδελφίδεα” term's kinship connection is not clear. It was recorded a limited number in inscriptions which do not give a clear explanation for the kinship connection⁸. In such a case it should have connection to the maternal uncle. There are also in the nominative casus “ἀδελφιδοῦς”, and “ἀδελφιδῆ” versions which mean nephew⁹.
