

Contributors to the Current Issues

Aleksandra Niemirycz is an independent researcher, poet, essayist, literary translator and conference interpreter, in the past worked as an editor, a journalist and a high school teacher. She graduated from the University of Warsaw (M.A. in Philosophy, M.A. in Polish Studies; Postgraduate Studies in Translation and Interpreting). In 2016, she earned her doctorate in the humanities at Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University in Warsaw based on the thesis: Poezja i biografia Barbary Sadowskiej (1940 – 1986).

Alexander Yemets graduated from Kharkiv State University majoring in translation. Defended the dissertation for Candidate of Science (Ph.D.) degree in Philology in 2000. He is the author of the monograph "Investigating Poeticalness of Prose" (2012) published in Saarbrücken, Germany and over 40 articles in the journals of Ukraine, Belarus, Poland, Slovakia, Germany, Russia. His fields of research include English stylistics, poetics, literary translation, text interpretation. Currently he has the post of professor of the department of Germanic Philology and Translation Studies at Khmelnytsky National University, Ukraine. Since 2016-member of the Consortium for Translation Education Research (Poland).

Alexandra Moraru Alexandra Moraru is Assistant Professor at Dimitrie Cantemir Christian University for 16 years. She holds a Ph.D. degree in philology from "Al. I. Cuza" University in Iasi and an MA in applied linguistics from the University of Bucharest.

Divya Joshi is Associate Professor of English at Govt. Dungar College, Maharaja Ganga Singh University, Bikaner. Her doctoral work is on gender studies and her areas of research include Indian Aesthetics, Philosophy, and Cultural translation. She is the editor of Texts in Translation (2014) and Indian Writing in English (2013). She has completed three major projects on Folklore of Rajasthan, Scroll Paintings and Havelis. Presently she is working on a project for revival of narrative traditions in collaboration with Maruparampara.

Funda Dörtkulak is English Instructor at Çankaya University Preparatory Unit since 2006. She completed her Ph.D. in English Language Teaching at Middle East Technical University, Turkey. Her main research is on cross-cultural pragmatics and intercultural pragmatics.

Gülşen Çulhaoğlu Pirencek is Assistant Professor of Turkish Language Division in the Department of Inter-Curricular Courses at Çankaya University, Turkey. She earned B.A. in 1998 from the Faculty of Letters, History and Geography at Ankara University and did her M.A. in the Department of Turkish Literature at Bilkent University on "Love Relations in Şeyhî's Hüsrev ü Şîrîn Mesnevî" in 2002 and received Ph.D. in 2009 on "Women Poet's Poetica in the Ottoman Poetry: Leylâ Hanım". Dr. Çulhaoğlu has been teaching since 2002 at Çankaya University and her areas of interest are the Ottoman poetry, women poets and women studies.

Günül Özlem Ayaydın Cebe is a graduate of Hacettepe University, Department of English Language and Literature. She earned her master's degree in 2003, and her doctoral degree in 2009, both in the field of Turkish Literature at Bilkent University. She has been teaching modern Turkish literature at Nevşehir Hacı Bektaş Veli University since 2010. She was a visiting research scholar in the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at Harvard University from February 2015 to June 2016. She is the author of Cervantes'ten Tilkiyan'a Osmanlı Edebiyatında Pastoralin Sergüzeşti (2016).

Hywel Dix is Principal Academic in English and Communication at Bournemouth University. He was formerly Raymond Williams Research Fellow at the University of Glamorgan, leading to the publication of After Raymond Williams: Cultural Materialism and the Break-Up of Britain (Second Edition, 2013). He has published extensively on the relationship between literature, culture and political change in contemporary Britain, most notably in Postmodern Fiction and the Break-Up of Britain (Continuum, 2010) and Multicultural Narratives: Traces and Perspectives, co-edited with Mustafa Kirca (2018). His wider research interests include modern and contemporary literature, critical cultural theory, authorial careers and autofiction. His monograph about literary careers entitled The Late-Career Novelist was published by Bloomsbury in 2017 and an edited collection of essays on Autofiction in English was published by Palgrave in 2018.

Irina-Ana Drobot is Lecturer of English Language in the Department of Engineering in Foreign Languages at Technical University of Civil Engineering of Bucharest, Romania. She completed her Ph.D. in English Literature at the University of Bucharest, Romania. Her main research focuses on English, American and world literature, linguistics, and English language teaching. She has published her Ph.D. dissertation Virginia Woolf and Graham Swift: the Lyrical Novel in 2014.

Onorina Botezat (BA in Philology and Law, MA in Law, Ph.D. in Theory of Literature) is Associate Professor and Director of the Center for Linguistic and Intercultural Research, at "Dimitrie Cantemir Christian University." Her main fields of interest and research are Legal Terminology and Imagological Studies. Author of Dictionary of legal terms, Romanian-English and English-Romanian (2011), The image of the foreigner in the national literature (2016) and co-author of ESP and FSP courses, she has participated as manager and team member in four European Projects.

Philip Glover teaches in the English Language and Literature Department at Suleyman Demirel University in Isparta. He has taught and trained teachers in Turkey, Cyprus, UK and Hungary. He has worked in English language teaching as a manager and as a consultant with testing and in-service training projects. His research interests include methodology, language testing, classroom discourse and language learning. * Adwaa Sabah Shukur Al-Tekreeti teaches in the English Department at the College of Education for Women at the Iraqia University in Baghdad and completed a Master's degree from Suleyman Demirel University in Turkey.

Qurratulaen Liaqat is Assistant Professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at Forman Christian College (A Chartered University) in Lahore, Pakistan. She has an M.Phil degree and is currently enrolled in Ph.D. in English Language and Literature. She has published and presented many of her research articles on national and international forums. Her research interests are post-colonial, post-9/11, and post-human literature. * Asia Mukhtar is Assistant Professor in the Department of International Relations at Kinnaird College for Women in Lahore. She holds a Ph.D. degree in International Relations and an M.Phil degree in Political Science from University of the Punjab, Pakistan. She has presented and published her research on many national and international research forums. Her research interests include nuclear proliferation issues, natural resources and water security issues, and human and energy security issues.