

Contributors to the Current Issue

Çiğdem Alp Pamuk is Assistant Professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at Adnan Menderes University. She graduated from Marmara University, Department of English Language Teaching. She got her MA and PhD from Ege University, Department of English Language and Literature. She is interested in modernist and contemporary novel and women's fiction.

Zekiye Antakyalıoğlu received her PhD from Ankara University, Department of English Language and Literature in 2004. Her dissertation, A Study of Stoppardian Drama from the Standpoint of Postmodernist and Counter-postmodernist Attitudes, was published as a book by Verlag Dr Müller Publishing in 2008. Currently, she is working as a professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at Gaziantep University (Turkey). She has various published articles on Stoppardian Drama and contemporary fiction. She is also the writer of two books in Turkish: Roman Kuramına Giriş (Ayrıntı Yayınları, 2013) and Bir Düşün Sonu: Milan Kundera Üzerine Bir İnceleme (Can Yayınları, 2017).

Seda Arıkan is Associate Professor of English in the Department of English Language and Literature at Fırat University (Turkey). She studied as a visiting researcher in Centre for Iris Murdoch Studies at Kingston University (London) in 2012 and she completed her postdoctoral study on "Virtue Ethics in the Novels of Doris Lessing" at Fordham University (New York) in 2019, which will be published as a monograph. She has officially managed the full doctorate course load at the Department of Philosophy at Yıldız Technical University (Turkey). She has studies on psychoanalytic literary criticism, comparative literature, philosophy and literature, ecology and literature, gender studies, and three monographs published in Turkish titled Iris Murdoch's Novels in the Light of Lacanian Psychoanalytic Theory (2014), which was awarded the best dissertation of 2013 on Social Sciences by Atatürk University; Cefer Cabbarlı: (Non)Reflections in the Mirror (2019), which was honored with Cefer Cabbarlı Award of 2019 in Azerbaijan, and Doris Lessing: A Philosophy of Life from Marxism to Sufism (2018), which was awarded the best monograph of the year on English Literature in 2019 by IDEA (English Language and Literature Research Association of Turkey).

Rahime Çokay Nebioğlu holds a PhD in English Literature from Middle East Technical University. Her research interests include contemporary fiction, utopian studies, modernism(s), continental philosophy, adaptation studies, and comparative literature. She is the author of Deleuze and the Schizoanalysis of Dystopia.

Buket Doğan is an instructor of English in the Department of Modern Languages at Middle East Technical University. She holds a Ph.D. in English Literature, and the title of her dissertation is “The Spatial Turn in Contemporary Irish Poetry: The Poetry of Seamus Heaney and Ciaran Carson”. Her research interests are the 20th and 21st century, modernism, modernist and contemporary poetry, critical literary theory with a special interest in post-structuralism, deconstruction, and theories of space.

Şebnem Düzgün is Assistant Professor in the Department of English Translation and Interpretation at Ankara Science University. She received her PhD degree in English Culture and Literature from Atılım University in 2017. Her main research interests include 18th- and 19th-century English literature, utopia, dystopia, science fiction, women’s literature and gender studies. She is the author of a book chapter on Margaret Cavendish’s The Blazing World, and of several scholarly peer-reviewed journal articles.

Vanessa Guignery is Professor of contemporary English and Postcolonial Literature at the École Normale Supérieure de Lyon (France). She has been a Fellow and University Affiliate at the Harry Ransom Humanities Centre in Austin, Texas on several occasions since 2006 and was an invited Professor at the Department of English at the University of Texas at Austin in 2011. She published several books and essays on the work of Julian Barnes, including The Fiction of Julian Barnes (2006), Conversations with Julian Barnes (2009), co-edited with Ryan Roberts, and Julian Barnes from the Margins: Exploring the Writer’s Archives (2020). www.vanessaguignery.com.

Ela İpek Gündüz is Assistant Professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at Gaziantep University (Turkey). She completed her BA in the Department of American Culture and Literature at Dokuz Eylül University and MA in the Department of English Language and Literature at Ankara University. She completed her PhD at Atılım University. She presented several papers at international conferences, and published several articles in international journals. Her primary fields of interest include gender studies, postcolonial and postmodern literature and neo-Victorianism. She teaches postgraduate and undergraduate courses on women’s literature, postcolonial literatures, literature and cinema, and cultural studies. Her recent works include “Fingersmith or Handmaiden: Adaptations from the Neo-Victorian Era to Contemporary Asia” (2018), “Never Let Me Go: A Traumatic Dystopian World” (2019) and “Ever After: A Neo-Victorian Retrospection” (2020).

Yeşim İpekçi is a research assistant in the Department of Foreign Language Education at Middle East Technical University (Turkey). She received her B.A. from the Department of English Language and Literature at Bilkent University in 2013, and completed her M.A. in the same field at Fırat University in 2017. She is currently a PhD candidate in English Literature at Middle East Technical University. Her major research interests include Victorian fiction, affect theory, psychology and literature, contemporary British novel, and postcolonial theory.

Deniz Kırpıklı is a research assistant in the Department of American Culture and Literature at Başkent University. She is a PhD candidate at Middle East Technical University, English Literature program. She received her BA from Ankara University, and her MA from Hacettepe University in English Language and Literature. Her research interests include memory studies, postcolonial theory, contemporary British novel, and Romantic poetry. She is now working on her dissertation on transcultural memory in black British writing.

Nil Korkut-Naykı is Associate Professor of Literary Studies in the Department of Foreign Language Education at Middle East Technical University, Ankara, Turkey. She holds a PhD from the same university. Previously she worked as Assistant Professor at the Department of American Culture and Literature at Başkent University in Ankara and as Visiting Postdoctoral Researcher in the Department of English at the University of Exeter, UK. Her research interests are 20th century fiction, modernism, postmodernism, literary parody, and literary and narrative theory. She is the author of Kinds of Parody from the Medieval to the Postmodern (Peter Lang, 2009). She has also authored research articles in her interest areas published in national and international books and journals.

Elif Öztapak-Avcı is Associate Professor of Literary Studies in the Department of Foreign Language Education at Middle East Technical University. She completed her PhD in Literary Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee in 2010. Her dissertation is titled “‘Dirty Hands’: The Servant as a Political Figure in Contemporary Fiction.” Her most recent publications include “Andrea Levy’s ‘World-Themed’ Fiction: Curating the World Wars in Small Island and ‘Uriah’s War’” (forthcoming in ARIEL: A Review of International English Literature, 2021), “Entanglement of the Domestic and the Global: A View of Globalization from Below in Kiran Desai’s The Inheritance of Loss” in Mapping Cultural Identities and Intersections (Cambridge Scholars, 2019) and “‘Playing Bad for White Ears’: A Study of the Narratee in Andrea Levy’s The Long Song,” JNT: Journal of Narrative Theory, 47.1, 2017. Her research areas include domestic fiction, contemporary British fiction, postcolonial theory and narrative theory.

Baysar Taniyan is Assistant Professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at Pamukkale University (Turkey). He graduated from the Department of English Language and Literature of Pamukkale University in 2006. He completed his MA in English Language and Literature at Pamukkale University in 2009, before receiving his PhD from the same university in 2014, with a thesis entitled “The Postmodern Re-Making of History: A Metahistorical Study of Julian Barnes’ Fiction”.