

Editor's Note

Dear Readers,

We are excited to be with you again with our eighth issue; and share our contentment to have come this far in academic publishing within a short period of time. We continue to stand firm in our scientific approach and position whilst moving towards to our fourth year in publishing. Our journal gets the attention of various prestigious academic databases as a result of applying the scientific criteria and standard of academic publishing.

Following the publication of this issue, we hand over this valuable duty to esteemed scholars. We believe that our journal which continuously increased its quality from the very first day of its publication, will continue to be published in the same manner. I would like to thank to my assistant editors, editorial board and advisory board for their help and support. Even after the publication of this issue, we will be offering our support and we will join in our group of readers.

Dear "Journal of Social Sciences" readers,

This issue is consisted of eight articles and two book reviews that we hope you will read with interest. I extend my sincere gratitude to scholars and researchers who contributed to this issue by submitting an article or book review, esteemed reviewers who devoted their valuable time for the evaluation process, to our respected members of the editorial board of journal and all contributors. I hereby congratulate on and wish success to the scholars who take over the editorial board of our journal.

Kind regards,

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Ragıp Kutay KARACA
