

We are thrilled to present to you a diverse collection of valuable articles from various disciplines within the health field. In volume 6, issue 2 of our journal, we are proud to feature 1 research article alongside 4 comprehensive review articles. This issue reflects the dedication and expertise of numerous seasoned researchers who have contributed their significant findings and insights.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to the experienced researchers whose hard work and commitment have made these important studies possible. Additionally, I extend my sincere appreciation to the diligent scientific reviewers who meticulously evaluated each submission, ensuring the high quality and integrity of our publication. Special thanks are also due to the entire editorial and support teams who have worked tirelessly behind the scenes to bring this issue to fruition

As our journal progresses through the evaluation process for inclusion in prestigious international indexes, our collective excitement and anticipation continue to grow. We are confident that these efforts will further enhance the visibility and impact of the valuable research we publish.

Prof. Dr. Osman Nuri Uçan

Editor in Chief