Review Process

1-Editor assignment is made for the field of the article uploaded to the system.

2-Editor: checks the files—checks whether the article is within the scope of InTraders Journal. If there are missing or incomplete files, send the article to the author and request the completion of the deficiencies. After the deficiencies are completed, the editor reads the article. Decide whether the article is suitable for evaluation. If the article is unsuitable for evaluation, the reason is detailed, and the editor rejects the article. If the article is suitable for evaluation, a secretariat is assigned to check the spelling and bibliography of the article.

2-Secretariat: receives the spelling-language report of the article with the paid Grammarly Program and uploads it to the additional files section of the system. The spelling-language report is expected to be 95% and above. A bibliography check is performed. If corrections are necessary in the article, the secretariat indicates the notes on the article. Uploads the correction request file to the additional files section in the system. Completes the process by directing the article to the editor.

3-Editor: According to the secretariat's report, if the study's spelling and grammar need to be corrected, the article is sent to the author. The author makes the necessary revisions and uploads the file to the system.

4-Editor: Sends the article back to the spelling and grammar secretariat.

5-The spelling and grammar secretariat checks whether the requested revision has been made and obtains a spelling and grammar report again with the Grammarly Program. If the report is 95% and above, it is accepted. If the deficiencies are completed, the secretariat completes the process. The study takes on the role of editor. If the necessary corrections are not completed, the editor is informed, and a recommendation is made to reject the study.

6-The editor runs a "two-blind peer referee" process for articles with completed deficiencies. The article is sent to two referees related to the field. The article with incomplete deficiencies is rejected by the editor with a reason as a result of the secretariat's recommendation decision or sent back to the author for correction.

7-Referees: They choose one of four options: rejection, acceptance, major revision, or minor revision. They fill out the evaluation form, and the reasoning for the decision is stated in detail in the report.

For the study to be published, it must be accepted by both referees.

7.1 The referees' reports are examined. The referees must detail their reports. The editor sends the article to new referees when he/she decides that the decisions of both or one of the referees are insufficient, even if both give a favourable decision. Referees who do a superficial review cannot be articleed with in the following periods and are removed from the journal board.

7.2. If one of the referees accepts and the other rejects, the editor may reject the study or send it to a third referee. The decision is the editor's choice.

7.3 If the referees make major/minor revisions to the article, they send them to the author, who makes the necessary corrections and uploads them to the system.

8. A "doi" assignment is made for the article whose processes are completed positively. After the doi is obtained, it is sent to the "final reader editor." The Final Reader Editor reads the study and may request the necessary corrections. If a correction is necessary, upload the report to the system. This completes the process.

9. If there is a correction request in accordance with the final reader editor report, the editor sends the study to the author. The author completes the necessary corrections. If the editor deems it necessary, the study is sent back to the final reader for control purposes.

10. The final reader checks again and completes the process if the corrections are complete. Sends the article to the editor.

11. The editor sends the completed study to the "layout editor," who prepares the article for publication.

12. The article, which has completed all processes positively, will be included in the earliest issue to be published.

*The editor reserves the right to reject all processes. The editor rejects the article for a reason. Reasons for rejection by the editor may be the author uploading incomplete files, not responding to the necessary revision requests or not doing so within the given time, recommendations and justifications of the referees and the secretariat.

The articles submitted for publication in InTraders must have never been published before, not been accepted for publication, and not submitted for publication.

*The Editor has the right to reject the work/deem it unsuitable for publication at each stage.

Publishing Periods

It is published twice a year. It is published in July and December. If it is deemed necessary, specific numbers / supplements may be issued for specific topics and for expanded notifications qualified by InTraders subject to conventions. Articles may always be accepted by InTraders.

Ethical Principles and Publication Policy

1. General Ethical Principles

1. Obtaining the necessary permissions from the ethics committees or commissions for studies that require permission from the Ethics Committee (for studies that require the application of a questionnaire or scale, including interviews and observations; documents, pictures, questionnaires, etc., developed by others and require permission to use), and these should be stated in the article content. or as an addendum. Without these permissions, the publication is returned to the author at the preliminary examination stage. Ethics Committee approval is mandatory for studies sent from Turkey (researchers located within the borders of the Republic of Turkey). Ethics committee approval is the author's responsibility due to the country's own management and systems.

2. It is essential that the raw data regarding the research in the peer reviews be submitted when requested by the referees. It is obligatory to provide the data after the article's publication when necessary.

InTraders International Trade Academic Journal, Volume 7 Issue 2, December 2024

e-ISSN-2667-4408

3. The authors accept that the contact information (mail, institution, ORCID) specified in their article will be included to be published/published in InTraders. InTraders agrees not to publish the authors' information anywhere other than the journal issues and not to share it with third parties for commercial and advertising purposes.

A. Ethical Principles for Authors

1. Authors guarantee that their work is original, and when they include ideas, languages, pictures, graphics and tables of other researchers in their work, they must indicate this as a quotation. Quoting without specifying the source is plagiarism.

2. Each author named in the study is equally responsible for the content of the study. It is unacceptable to not include the name of the researcher who contributed to the study or his name unjustly, even though he did not contribute.

3. Authors should stick to their research findings. It is out of the question to change the findings, make up findings and results, and conduct research based on them. Situations such as tampering with data and materials, deleting, removing, or skipping the interpretation of difficult data are distrustful.

4. Simultaneous submission of the study to journals is not possible. Authors cannot send their previously published works to the journal.

As of 2020, the TR Index-Journal Evaluation criteria have been updated. The articles related to the ethics committee permission, which should be in scientific research, have been detailed. The "documents and information requested for studies requiring ethics committee approval" is not expected to be applied to studies submitted in previous years, the evaluation process of which has been completed but has not yet been published, and for which research data before 2020 has been used, although the evaluation process is still ongoing. The process will start in 2020, and research data will be mandatory for articles starting in 2020. The articles for which the Ethics Committee Permission Document is required are explained below. EXPLANATION AND INFORMATION on the Ethical Rules Made by TR Index: The articles related to the Code of Ethics, which were included in the previous years' criteria, were detailed with explanations in 2020, and the issue of "includes information about the permission in the article" was added to the criteria, assuming that the permissions were obtained for the studies

Requiring ethics committee permission in the research field. QUESTION: Is ethics committee approval required for all articles? No. The criteria state that it applies to “articles that require the permission of the Ethics Committee.”

Studies that require the approval of the Ethics Committee are as follows:

- All kinds of research conducted with qualitative or quantitative approaches require data collection from the participants using surveys, interviews, focus group work, observation, experiments, and interview techniques.
- The use of humans and animals (including material/data) for experimental or other scientific purposes,
- Clinical studies on humans,
- Research on animals,
- Retrospective studies by the law on the protection of personal data,

Also;

- Indicating that an “informed consent form” was received in case reports,
- Obtaining and specifying permission from the owners for the use of scales, questionnaires, photographs belonging to others,
- Indication of compliance with copyright regulations for the intellectual and artistic works used

QUESTION: Should a retrospective Ethics Committee Permission be obtained for publications produced from studies and a thesis completed in previous years? Retrospective ethics committee approval is not required for articles published before 2020, produced from master's/doctoral studies (must be specified in the article), submitted an application for publication to the journal in the previous year, and accepted but not published. QUESTION: Are there any restrictions on publications made outside universities with these rules of the TR Directory?

No. Non-university researchers can also apply to the Ethics Committees in their regions.

Also;

InTraders International Trade Academic Journal, Volume 7 Issue 2, December 2024

www.intraders.org

e-ISSN-2667-4408

In articles to be published in journals, it should be stated in the article whether ethical committee permission and/or legal/special permission is required. If it is necessary to obtain these permissions, it should clearly state from which institution, on what date, and with which decision or number the permission was obtained.

If the study requires the use of human and animal subjects, an international declaration, guide, etc., should be declared appropriate.

B. Ethical Principles for Referees

1. Referees should know that the evaluation process is confidential and should not be shared with third parties.
2. The referees must submit an objective, impartial, scientific, understandable and constructive evaluation report about the study within the specified time.
3. Referee reports will also include an assessment of the scientific nature of the article (the subject covered, the method used, or the appropriate use of the relevant literature). This evaluation must be made about the content, whether positive or negative.
4. It is not recommended or considered unethical for the reviewer to request citations for their work. If the referee's studies are related to the study he is examining, he can specify one or two studies, but the studies mentioned are advisory, and it is up to the author whether to use the specified studies or not.
5. When it is understood that the work is plagiarized or has been previously published elsewhere, the referees should notify the editor.

2. Publication Policy
