

Editorial

Dear Colleagues,

In this issue, we have a letter to the editor that recommends to design further studies about ocular infections and probiotics.

What is more, you will read a case report with 2 cases. It is about a unique entity “Schwartz- Matsio syndrome” developing after blunt trauma and its management. Also we have a short communication with 4 cases from India concerning a relatively rare cause of endophthalmitis “Acinetobacter baumannii”. It has been presented with poor visual and anatomical outcomes.

We all wish you a happy new year, hopefully free from wars and disasters.
