Scope & Publication Ethics

Overtones Ege Journal of English Studies welcomes research articles and reviews related to all subjects in the field of English Language and Literature. The journal is an international, double-blind peer reviewed journal which offers open access to all. The journal offers full access to the journal's archives and latest issues free of charge under all circumstances in order to support and contribute to the expansion of international academic knowledge. Readers of the journal are free to download, copy, distribute, search or use the full texts of the articles to use them for any lawful means without asking any particular permission from the publisher or the authors of the journal providing that they properly cite the source and protect the academic integrity of the journal.

The scope of the journal covers theoretical, critical and thematic contexts regarding English Studies, including English linguistics, translation studies, cultural studies and all other related subjects. Authors are to submit complete, original and full-length articles (4000-8000 words) and reviews (1000-2000 words) which have not been published or under evaluation elsewhere. All articles will be scanned for plagiarism via Ithenticate. If any instances of plagiarism are found during any of the stages of publication (reviewer evaluation, editorial reading and typesetting) the article will be rejected and the author will be notified immediately. Citation manipulated articles, or in other words, articles that are submitted to increase the citation number of a specific author will be rejected directly.

The views expressed in the journal are those of the authors, and do not necessarily coincide with those of the Editor or the Advisory Board. The PDF of the journal will be available to download for all. The names and e-mail addresses in the journal are to be used for academic purposes exclusively and will not be shared with any other party. All articles published by the journal are licensed under the Creative Commons License*. This license gives public permission to copy and use any material in the journal only if the original manuscript and the source are cited appropriately.

Overtones Ege Journal of English Studies is currently indexed in MLA, ERIHPLUS and TRDizin (as of 2024).

Submission, Evaluation & The Editorial Office

Article Submission & Evaluation Procedure

Articles and reviews should follow MLA parenthetical citation format and the journal's paper submission template. All articles are assigned manuscript numbers within 48 hours of submission once they are approved by the editor who checks if the articles follow the journal's guidelines. All articles are listed after the annual deadline (September 15) and sent to double blind evaluation within two weeks (October 1). The evaluation process of the reviewers is six weeks (November 15). Accepted articles are sent back to the authors for necessary corrections. The authors then have two weeks to work on their manuscripts according to reviewers' suggestions (December 1) and submit their revised articles along with a short bio (max. 100 words) an abstract (max. 200 words) and 8 keywords. If one of the reviewers rejects the article, the author is advised to work on the article and send it once again to be evaluated for the next issue during the forthcoming year. Articles accepted by both reviewers are to be published in the current volume of the journal.

The editorial board is responsible for overseeing and supervising the editorial work.

The editor initially checks the manuscript to see if it meets the journal's scope and standards. The role of the editor is to make decisions related to publication and accountability, along with ensuring the confidentiality of all parties including the editorial office, reviewers and authors. Furthermore, the editor works on improving journal quality by submitting the journal to international academic indexes. The editor and the editorial office are never to disclose any information regarding a submitted manuscript to anyone else but the corresponding author and potential reviewers. The reviewers' and the authors' personal information will remain anonymous throughout the evaluation process. The editor and the editorial office will monitor the publication ethics of the journal in each stage of publication and further read and evaluate the journal for plagiarism.

The advisory board includes international scholars from all fields of English Studies. The role of the reviewers is to ensure the quality of the journal by providing objective, scholarly, detailed and prompt evaluations of the submitted articles according to the "Reviewer's Guide". All manuscripts are to be evaluated in confidentiality and never shared with others during evaluation.

The authors are responsible of providing original content without any plagiarism which meets the standards of international academic research. All sources used in the manuscripts should be cited properly. All those who have contributed to the manuscript should be listed as co-authors. All authors are to state any conflicts of interest. It is the author's responsibility to notify the editorial office if the author discovers any significant mistake in their published work in order to correct or retract the manuscript. In order to ensure blind evaluation, the authors should not include personal information in their manuscripts. The authors are to revise their manuscripts according to reviewers' evaluations. The authors are to send the revised version of their manuscript to the editorial office by stating all the changes they have done. The authors cannot submit the same article published in another language.
