Aim and Scope: The Journal of Tourism Theory and Research is a periodical devoted to scientific principles that improve tourism theories and research. The journal publishes research and review articles, reports from the tourism field, and discussions on topics critical to today's tourism education and sector practitioners, operations managers, and human resource professionals. The Journal of Tourism Theory and Research focuses on specific topics such as:

Alternative Tourism	Organizational Behavior in Tourism	Tourism History
Archeology and History	Recreation Management	Tourism Law
Consumer Behavior in Tourism	Social Media in Tourism	Tourism Management
Destination Management	Tourism and Environment	Tourism Marketing
E-Tourism	Tourism Economics	Tourism Planning
Gastronomy & Culinary Arts	Tourism Education	Tourism Sociology
HRM in Tourism	Tourism Ethics	Tourism and Sport
International Tourism	Tourism Geography	Tourist Behavior
Leisure studies	Tourism Guidance	Travel and Transportation

Peer Review Policy: All submitted manuscripts are subject to initial appraisal by the Editor. All research articles related to tourism in JTTR have undergone rigorous double-blind peer review based on section editor review and anonymous review by two anonymous reviewers. Invited research articles and original tourism book reviews undergo chief editorial review.
