INDUSTRIAL MINERALS

DECEMBER 2000

22 CIS insight
Quarterly report on CIS industrial minerals

49 Not to be sniffed at
US and European cat litter markets reviewed
Cat litter is an unglamorous, but very important market for absorbent clays. The 1990s saw the arrival of "clumping" litters, based on sodium bentonite, which to date have captured almost 60% of the market in the USA, and a figure approaching this in parts of Europe. The talk of 2000 however has been clay alternative litters which are gaining in popularity. This article looks at the main players in the US and European cat litter industries, from mineral suppliers to branded leaders, and attempts to identify the trends that are likely to have an impact in the future market.
