

EDITORIAL

---

Dear colleagues,

The Turkish Journal of Ear Nose and Throat, which has been published for many years, has been published in English for the past two years. The COVID-19 Special Issue, which is available during the pandemic, contains invaluable data regarding our field of practice. As we all know, these times are hard times for the all humanity. The pandemic has a tremendous impact on every aspect of life and world economy. We would like to express our gratitude and sincere appreciation to Necla Akgün, the primary school teacher of Prof. Engin Yazıcıođlu, MD, her decedent spouse İsmet Akgün, and their beloved daughters who provided a generous financial support for the publication of the journal including four issues and an additional special issue annually. We appreciate their devoted efforts.

With our deepest appreciation

Yours sincerely,
Prof. İsmet Aslan, MD
