A) Journal of Sirah Studies Writing Rules

1. An abstract of at least 150 and at most 500 words should be included at the beginning of the article and there should be a keywords section of 5 words. The first of the keywords should indicate the branch of science the article belongs to and the words should be listed from general to specific.
2. While the article is being uploaded to the system, there will be no information about the author. After passing the referee, during the final submission, the name and surname of the author should be included under the title of the article, and the title, institution, field, mail and ORCID information should be included in the relevant footnote.
3. The title of the article should be written both in Turkish and English in lowercase letters.
4. Articles should include Introduction.
5. The font in the article should be Times New Roman and the size should be 12 pt., 10 pt. Footnotes.
6. ISNAD CITATION STYLE should be taken into consideration in the citation and the bibliography of the studies. Authors can download this system from the website of the citation system.
7. Page layout should be 2.5 cm from the top and bottom, 3 cm from the right and left; paragraph indentation should be set as 1 cm, paragraph spacing first 0 pt, then 6 pt, line spacing 1.05.
8. The volume of original articles should not exceed 10,000 words and 2,000 words.
9. Except for the obligatory situations required by the subject in terms of spelling rules and punctuation, the Turkish Language Association spelling guide should be taken as a basis.
10. Book: Author's surname, work name (italic), if translation is the name of the translator (trans.), If it is verified (thk.), If it is simplified (sad.), If it is edited (ed. Or haz.), Publisher, print place and date (example, Istanbul 2004), If it is a manuscript, Author's surname, work name (italic), Library, number (no.), leaf number (sample, vr. 10b).
11. Some examples of abbreviations used in our journal; See (see.), cf. (cp.), Encyclopedia of Islam Religious Foundation of Turkey (DIA), Ministry Encyclopedia of Islam (UTI), Library (KTP.).
12. DIA should be taken as an example in the name of the work and concept.
13. Footer and header entries should not be made. Page numbers should not be included.
14. Manuscripts that do not meet these conditions will not be published even if the referee process is completed.

B) Ethical Principles and Publication Policy of the Journal of Sirah Studies

1. The Journal of Sirah Studies (hereinafter referred to as the Journal) is a refereed journal (at least two referees) published every six months (January 1st and July 1st) every year.
2. Article acceptance dates: November 15 for the January issue; For the July issue, articles will be accepted until May 15.
3. The right to accept or reject all articles sent to the journal belongs to the editor and / or the editorial board. Manuscripts that are not scientific or that are deemed contrary to national, moral and cultural values are not evaluated by the editor.
4. Legal responsibilities of all works accepted and published by the editor of the journal belong to their authors.
5. The spelling and spelling mistakes that can be found in the texts belong to the author.
6. Original articles should contain abstract, abstract and bibliography in accordance with international journal boards.
7. The editor reserves the right to make corrections, to publish or not to publish the works sent to the journal.
8. In the text of the article sent to the journal, the author's name, surname, title information and if the article, thesis, project, notification, etc. If it was produced, there should not be any information about it. All such information must be in the Copyright Agreement.
9. Articles submitted to the journal for publication are subjected to pre-check, plagiarism screening, referee evaluation and Turkish-English language control stages. Studies that pass the pre-control stage are included in the evaluation process in which at least two referees take part in the framework of the double-blind arbitration principle. Articles that pass the approval of two referees are published.
10. It does not charge any fee from the authors for the article evaluation and publication process.