AIM & SCOPE

Phoenix Medical Journal is a scientific journal that publishes retrospective, prospective or experimental research articles, review articles, case reports, editorial comment/discussion, letter to the editor, and aims to reach all national/international institutions and individuals.

Phoenix Medical Journal publishes actual studies in all fields of medicine. The journal is published three times a year and in March, July, and November. The official languages of the journal are Turkish and English.

Phoenix Medical Journal respects the scientific submission of its authors, therefore, all submitted manuscript are processed through an expeditious double-blind peer review process. We aim at completing the review process within the scheduled time frame.

The author(s) undertake(s) all scientific responsibility for the manuscript.
