Example: Situation in cattle, Egg production, Wheat Spike Structures, ... etc.
 - ✓ Footnote Usage: Footnotes are used to provide additional information or expand on the text where the source citation is made. They should be written in Times New Roman, 9 point font size, justified alignment, and single line spacing.
 - ✓ Abbreviations to be used in the text: Only standard metric abbreviations should be used. When an abbreviation is first used, it should be written with the unabridged word, and in subsequent repetitions, only the abbreviation should be used. International System units and numbers should be used in the text. This includes using internationally accepted signs and symbols as well as SI units.

TABLES AND FIGURES

An example has been provided in the article template file. The following points should be considered regarding tables: The font size within tables should be 9-point Times (New) Roman. Tables and figures should be centered without indentation. Tables and figures appropriate to the subject and field should be used. Table and figure captions should be in 11-point font size.

Example: Figure 1. Explanation of the information presented in the figure
Table 1. XXXXXX XXXXXX XXXXXXXXXXXXX

REFERENCES IN TEXT (APA 7):

- ✓ Parentheses are used when indicating in-text references. No spaces are used within parentheses.
Example: (Xxxx, 2023) is correct, (Xxxx, 2023) is incorrect.
- ✓ Both citation and paraphrasing methods require the citation of the source.
- ✓ The conjunction "ve" should be used for bibliographic connectors and reference lists in Turkish articles. "And" should be used for in-text citations in English articles, and the "&" symbol should be used in the reference list.
- ✓ When citing in-text references, page numbers are not typically included. However, if a direct citation is used and there is specific information that requires emphasis, the page number should be included. Here is an example of a citation:

Example: (Dursun, 2006).in Turkish articles (Polat ve Sezer, Example: 2022). in English articles (Polat and Sezer, 2022). vb.

- ✓ Except for quoted texts, when providing the author and year in parentheses, the parentheses are opened after the last word, and the sentence is concluded with the appropriate punctuation mark (e.g, ".", "?", "!") outside of the closing parenthesis.

Example: it has been found that (Kaya, 2012).

- ✓ If multiple sources need to be cited, they can be separated using a semicolon (;) within the parentheses.

Example: (Denizli, 2005; Durmaz ve Argun, 2013; Çepni, 2022)

- ✓ If you are referencing a study with three or more authors in the text, after writing the surname of the first author, the abbreviations 'et al.' or 've diğer.' are used to indicate the inclusion of additional authors.

Example: Durmaz ve diğer. (2009) or (Durmaz ve diğer., 2009).
Eckmann ve ark. (2020) or (Eckmann ve ark., 2020).

- ✓ In English texts, the abbreviation 'et al.' is used after the surname of the first author to indicate the inclusion of additional authors in a citation with three or more authors.

Example: Istanbullugil et al. (2009) found that
..... (Istanbullugil et al., 2007)

- ✓ If two references published in the same year have the same form and need to be abbreviated, the subsequent authors' surnames should be used to differentiate between them, followed by 'et al.' (or 'et al.' for English texts). This ensures that the references are indicated without interfering with each other.

Example: 1. Source: Yılmaz, Aydın ve Peçenek (2015)1. Source: Yılmaz, Gündüz ve Pak (2015).

When referencing multiple sources with the same form and published in the same year, using "et al." alone, such as "Yılmaz et al., (2015)," may lead to confusion as to which specific reference is being cited. To differentiate between the two references, the surnames of the subsequent authors should be included. For example, the first reference could be written as "Yılmaz, Aydın et al., (2015)" and the second reference as "Yılmaz, Gündüz et al., (2015)." This format clarifies which specific reference is being referred to.

- ✓ If the author of a source is specified as "anonymous," it should be indicated as such in the in-text citation. For example, if the year of publication is 2021 and the source is anonymous, it can be cited as "(Anonymous, 2021)" in the text. Turkish: “.....(Anonim, 1976)”, English: “.....(Anonymus, 1976)”.

- ✓ If multiple authors share the same surname, it is necessary to include the first initials of their names to differentiate between them. This helps avoid confusion and ensure accurate referencing.

Example:O. Yılmaz ve Narin (2005) ve K. Yılmaz (2007) in the research they did
Ç. Arslan'ın (1958) ve Z. Arslan'ın (1989) in the research they did

- ✓ When referencing the works of an author or the same authors published in the same year, the letters 'a', 'b', and so on are used to differentiate between them. These letters are added to the year in both the in-text citations and the corresponding references list.

Example: (Doğan ve Gümüş, 1991a, 1991b). [if both studies are shown in the same sentence]
..... (Doğan ve Gümüş, 1991a). [when using in different sentences]..... (Doğan ve Gümüş, 1991b). [when using in different sentences]

- ✓ In translated works, you have two options for citing the author and year:

1. You can include the author and the year of the translation. For example: Smith, J. (2010). Title of Book (M. Johnson, Trans.). Publisher.
2. Alternatively, you can provide both the original publication date and the date of translation. For example: Smith, J. (2010/2018). Title of Book (Original work published 2010, M. Johnson, Trans.). Publisher.

Both formats provide clarity regarding the translation of the work and allow readers to understand the original publication date as well.

Example: Turkish (Eckmann, çev. 1983).
English (Eckmann, trans. 1983).

or

Eckman (1983/2022).

- ✓ In direct quotations of less than 40 words, quotation marks should be added around the words, and the quotation should be included within the text. No additional formatting is necessary. An ellipsis should not be added to the beginning or end of the citation unless the original source contains an ellipsis.

- ✓ The quoted text should start on a new line, with an additional indentation of 1 cm from both sides. The source should be indicated in parentheses after the last punctuation mark of the quoted text. The reference should include the author's surname, the year of publication, and the page number of the cited text. No additional punctuation mark is used at the end of the parentheses.

Example:

In a study on food safety awareness: Bişkek şehrindeki üniversite öğrencilerinin gıda güvenliği kavramını duyanların oranı % 75 olarak tespit edilse de gıda güvenliği sistemlerinin bilenlerin oranının bir hayli az olduğu görülmüştür. Gıda maddesi satın alırken öğrencilerin kısmen bilinçli davrandıkları, bu bağlamda en fazla dikkat ettikleri hususun gıdanın son tüketim tarihi ve raf ömrü olduğu, sonrasında diğer içeriklere baktıkları tespit edilmiştir. (İstanbullugil ve Gürbüz, 2015, s. 89)

or

İstanbullugil and Gürbüz (2015) stated that there is a difference between the awareness of food safety and food safety systems in their studies:

Bişkek şehrindeki üniversite öğrencilerinin gıda güvenliği kavramını duyanların oranı % 75 olarak tespit edilse de gıda güvenliği sistemlerinin bilenlerin oranının bir hayli az olduğu görülmüştür. Gıda maddesi satın alırken öğrencilerin kısmen bilinçli davrandıkları, bu bağlamda en fazla dikkat ettikleri hususun gıdanın son tüketim tarihi ve raf ömrü olduğu, sonrasında diğer içeriklere baktıkları tespit edilmiştir. (s. 89)

- ✓ If you have obtained information on a subject through secondary sources, the primary source is not included in the references section. Instead, the secondary source is cited. In the text, you can indicate this by using the phrase "as cited in" or "as mentioned in" before the secondary source citation.

Example: A piece of information in Ibn Sina's El-Kânûn Fî't-Tıb is mentioned in Levey's work. And you have not read Ibn Sina. In this case, the in-text citation would be as follows:

In his well known book 'El-Kânûn Fî't-Tıb', Ibn Sina (1899) It gives information about the anatomical structure of the human (as cited in Kahya, 1995).

In the References section, the work of Kahya, not Ibn Sina, is included.

Kahya, E. (1995). El-Kânûn Fî't-Tıb, TDV İslâm Ansiklopedisi, <https://islamansiklopedisi.org.tr/el-kanunfit-tib>

- ✓ All sources that are cited in the text should be included in the 'References' section at the end of the document.

PREPARING THE REFERENCE LIST (APA 7TH EDITION)

- ✓ The reference list should be written in 10-point Times (New) Roman font with justified alignment and single line spacing.
- ✓ Pay attention to the following explanations when listing the references.
- ✓ Authors should be arranged in alphabetical order based on their surnames.
- ✓ Regardless of the language of the source used, if the article is in English, the reference list should follow the English citation rules. If the article is in Turkish, the reference list should adhere to Turkish citation rules.
- ✓ For articles in Kyrgyz or Russian, regardless of the language of the source used, the reference list should be written according to the rules of either English or Turkish.
- ✓ When multiple works are cited from the same author, the one with the earliest year should be listed first.
- ✓ The names of institutions provided in the references should be written explicitly without using abbreviations. Example: Ministry of Environment, Urbanization and Climate Change of the Republic of Turkey (1997). Xxxx ...
- ✓ For articles written in non-Latin alphabets such as Kyrgyz or Russian, a separate reference list is prepared either entirely in the Latin alphabet or in a combination of Latin and other alphabets.
