5. Review and Send

In the last step, you need to check the information you filled.

If there is a missing or incorrect information, you can click on the related steps on the left to edit.

In the last step, you must approve the criteria requested by the editorship.

If you have a note to the editor, add your note and send your article.

Thus your submission is completed.

After submitting the article

If the article has a single author, it is submitted directly to the journal. It will be in the "new submission" status. It is expected to take action by the editorship.

If you have added other authors during the submission, the corresponding author is expected to be registered in the system. At this time, the article is in the "Submission Pending" status. When the other authors complete their registration, the article is submitted to the journal. (The registration process is explained in the first pages of this document)

If you have selected the registered authors in the system, the related authors are not expected to register again. The article is submitted directly to the journal. It will be in the "new submission" status. You can follow this process from your author panel.

If you have verified your account, you will receive an email for each process.

If you haven't verified your account, click the verification warning on your user page. If you have verified your account, this warning will not appear.

You can write your questions about the process from the "Messages" tab to the secretary or editors assigned to the article.

You can check the transactions process of the article from the status area such as Secretary, Editor, Reviewer, Author, etc.

If the order of transaction in the article is "Author", you can edit the manuscript information and upload files.

If you cannot upload a file, it is not your turn to process.

Your article workflow will start when authors who are not in DergiPark complete their registration.

Withdraw article

If the article is in the "New submission" or "With Author" status, you can withdraw the article. You can withdraw from the article's process page. This will put your article in the "Withdrawn" status.

In other cases, you can forward your withdrawn request to the editor or the secretary from the "Messages" tab.

The editor or the secretary has the authority to restate. Returned articles will also be in the "Articles Withdrawn" status.

Once the article is withdrawn, it cannot be reprocessed by the journal.

If you want the article to be processed in the same journal, you must re-submit the article.

The screenshot displays a submission overview page. On the left, there is a PDF icon and the text: "Study", "Type: Konferans Bildirisi", "Subject: Engineering", and "id: 819629". In the center, a status box shows "Status: New Submission" with a calendar icon, "Submission Date: August 31, 2021", and "Due Date: September 15, 2021". On the right, the "Editor" is listed as "Unassigned". Below the overview, there are tabs for "Files", "Messages", "Timeline", and "Emails". The "Authors" section is visible, with a dropdown arrow and a "Withdraw Article" button highlighted with a red box. The "Primary Author" field is also present.
